Essential Dynamics Product Line

Manufactured by Thor Incorporated

The human immune system has the ability to fight most lifestyles diseases when the body has the necessary building blocks (1). These are found in undenatured food (2). Research has demonstrated that most people having an illness with clinical symptoms are deficient in glutathione (3) and low levels of natural killer cell activity (4).

Glutathione is needed for proper transportation of nutrition, immune function and detoxification. It is the master antioxidant manufactured in the body. It literally sustains life within each cell as well as the entire body. And without adequate levels the result is death. In addition, as the body manufactures glutathione it is found that the natural killer cells increase and the immune system can help the body function better. Oral glutathione is ineffective and has known side effects with long-term use.

Thor Incorporated is committed, along with their independent development partner in providing undenatured concentrated whole food supplements, which provide precursors (5) to the cellular production of glutathione.

Thor Incorporated mission is to provide precursors in the form of undenatured amino acids, peptides, fatty acids, polysaccharides and minerals.

This approach requires fewer supplements, as contrasted with individual supplementation that requires the use of dozens of products that have not been designed specifically to be used with one another. The individual supplementation approach leaves on with little structure. People are left to a haphazard way, though well intended, approach to achieving optimal health. In many cases this approach will provide you with several products providing identical ingredients, thus contributing to an imbalanced approach to nutrition. The result is that the duplication or the wrong selection of along with the methods of product preparation has been clinically proven to be ineffective.

The use of Thor products has produced results, which have gained the respect of those who conduct clinical trials. Thor and their independent development partners have been invited to run clinical trials with Independent Boards of Review to demonstrate on a boarder patient base, the anecdotal result that have been demonstrated through individuals using theses products. One of our independent development partners is prepared to start such activities in 2005 for autoimmune related diseases such as diabetes, lupus, IBS and skin cancer.

If you have a medical problem/problems it is recommended that you seek the counsel of a Medical doctor.

It is our policy to subject ourselves to very high standards. Through this process we continue to learn how to improve our products and services.

- (1) Building blocks come from undenatured concentrated whole foods.
- (2) Undenatured means that the sulfur bonds of the amino acids and peptides and the enzymes are still active. This is important for bioavailability.
- (3) Glutathione is a peptide, which is manufactured in each cell from three undenatured amino acids.
- (4) Natural killer cells are a component of the immune system. The function of these cells is to kill off to kill off unwanted virus, bacteria, and fungus.
- (5) Precursors are amino acids, peptides, enzymes, vitamins and minerals that are commonly known as building blocks for the body to manufacture what it needs to function.
